The second miracle attributed to Acutis took place in 2022, according to the Vatican News. This time, a mother from Costa Rica made a pilgrimage to Acutis' tomb in Assisi, praying for her daughter's recovery after a brain injury, the outlet reported. The girl's reported recovery, and Acutis' alleged intercession, were recognized as his second miracle Thursday.

News of Acutis' possible canonization comes just days after the Vatican reformed its process for evaluating certain religious visions. Specifically, the Vatican's new process makes it tougher for alleged events of "supernatural origin" to be authenticated, the office of the Holy See said.

The move, in part, was adopted to prevent instances of people attempting to fabricate such visions or apparitions in order to manipulate the faithful.

The new norms make clear that such an abuse of people's faith can be punishable canonically, saying, "The use of purported supernatural experiences or recognized mystical elements as a means of or a pretext for exerting control over people or carrying out abuses is to be considered of particular moral gravity."

First Millennial Saint - Carlo Acutis

A tapestry featuring a portrait of Carlo Acutis is hung at the St. Francis Basilica during the beatification ceremony of Carlo Acutis, on October 10, 2020, in Assisi, Italy. The 15-year-old Carlo Acutis, a member of the Millennial generation who died on 12 October 2006 from M3 fulminant leukemia, is considered a “computer geek” on account of his passion and skill with computers and the internet. Acutis applied himself to creating a website dedicated to cataloging each reported Eucharistic miracle

Acutis, who was born in London in 1991 but lived in Italy, had operated a website to document Eucharistic miracles and visions of Mary from around the world, starting the project when he was 11.

He was said to have a passion for the history of the church, and a thirst for knowledge that prompted his mother, who had only attended mass “three times,” to take theology classes to be able to discuss and answer Acutis’ questions, Vatican News reported.

He had also considered priesthood, his mother said, before becoming sick and dying after a battle with acute myeloid leukemia in 2016. After his body was laid to rest at a cathedral in Assisi, admirers frequently made pilgrimages to his tomb.

Acutis’s first step on the journey toward sainthood occurred in 2018, when a decree authorized by Pope Francis declared him “Venerable,” according to the Catholic News Agency. Acutis became “Blessed,” or beautified, in 2020, after a woman in Brazil claimed that praying for Acutis’ intercession cured her son of a pancreatic issue, the National Catholic Register recounted.

Honour Christ's Teachings – Lover of Mankind

1. Love one another: Just as Christ loved us unconditionally, we can show love and kindness to those around us. This can be done through acts of service, compassion, and understanding.
2. Practice forgiveness: Christ taught the importance of forgiveness. By letting go of grudges and choosing forgiveness, we not only follow His example but also experience freedom and peace in our own lives.
3. Serve others: Christ was a servant leader, always putting others before Himself. We can honor His teachings by serving those in need, whether it's through volunteering, helping a friend, or practicing random acts of kindness.
4. Seek righteousness: Christ encouraged us to seek righteousness and live according to His teachings. This involves living a life of integrity, honesty, and moral values, and striving to grow spiritually.
5. Share the Gospel: Christ's message of love and salvation is meant to be shared. We can honor His teachings by spreading the Good News through our words and actions, being a light in the world, and helping others come to know Him.

Remember, honouring Christ's teachings is a lifelong journey. It requires consistent effort, reflection, and a genuine desire to live in alignment with His teachings.
